

Valve Actuators Market Research

FIVE-YEAR MARKET ANALYSIS AND TECHNOLOGY FORECAST THROUGH 2023

MARKET POISED FOR A GLOBAL SLOW DOWN IN FUTURE

This report serves as an effective planning guide for valve actuator suppliers and new entrants to the business.

According to ARC research, as expected the global valve actuator market enjoyed a healthy spike in demand in 2018. Demand for both isolation and modulating valve actuators spiked with the appreciation of global oil prices, which led to higher investments in new and previously stalled upstream and midstream projects. Higher oil prices also sparked a round of deferred upgrades and maintenance activities from companies in the chemical, refining, and oil & gas midstream markets.

The ongoing trade war between the US and China and an anticipated slowdown in the global economy might lead to lower market growth in the forecast period. However, with the ongoing trend toward digitalizing valve operations management and maintenances among end users, actuator suppliers offering intelligent valve actuation technology with enhanced functionality are expected to capitalize the most from this opportunity, with higher than average growth expected.

STRATEGIC ISSUES

This report provides strategic market information and guidance for the worldwide valve actuators marketplace. It helps answer strategic questions such as:

- Who are the leading suppliers?
- What are the key go-to strategies for suppliers and buyers?
- What does the future hold for the actuator market?

RESEARCH FORMATS

This research is available as a Market Intelligence Workbook (Excel) and/or a comprehensive Market Outlook Report (PDF) with or without detailed charts.
